Fruit of the Drunken Tree

—Ingrid Rojas Contreras

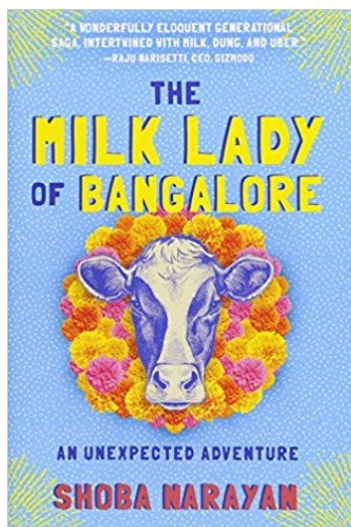

The perils of day-to-day existence in late-20th-century Colombia—a time of drug lords, guerrillas, kidnappings, and car bombs—are glimpsed through the eyes of a child and her family's teenage maid, whose relationship exposes two facets of the class divide. Chula Santiago and her family's maid, Petrona, slowly build a friendship fraught with both types of surprises. Told with suspense and mystical lyricism in the vein of Gabriel García Márquez and Isabel Allende.

BOOK CLUB

Monday, February 25: The Milk Lady of Bangalore: An Unexpected Adventure by Shoba Narayan (Non-fiction)

7:00-9:00 pm

(Call Jennifer Crittenden for details: 315-633-2817)

Narayan weaves a magical spell of India, cows, traditions and change into a single tale. India itself contains layer upon layer of myth and legend, rich fodder for any writer to pick through and the author takes full advantage of her source material while drawing characters very much of the present day. A beautiful story, beautifully told!

PS Jennifer would like to let you know that, if you are interested in her Fig, Date, and Raisin Tapioca Pudding, give her a call at 315-633-2817.

Here is Sue Savion's recipe for BASSELACKIE COOKIES, a popular Christmas cookie from her Swiss-German heritage:

HEAT: 2 cups honey

1/2 cup lard

1 cup wine

2 1/2 cups coconut

ADD:

2 heaping tbs. cocoa

1 pinch ground cloves

1 pinch all-spice

2 tbs. cinnamon

1/2 tsp. nutmeg

BEAT WELL

ADD: 2 cups sugar

1/2 lb. citron (ground)

1 lemon rind (grated) and juice

1 1/2 cups nuts (chopped)

SIFT: 4 1/2 c. flour

2 tsp. baking powder

2 tsp. baking soda

Add flour to rest of ingredients; mix well. Let set in refrigerator overnight. Roll out on floured surface—not too thin; cut into desired shapes.

Bake at 350 degrees; take out when they look done. If baked too long, they get too hard. Cool and ice and sprinkle with decorations, if desired.

ICING: Mix powdered sugar and water to thin icing. Ice cookies and let icing dry. Place cookies in air-tight container. Let them age for a week or so. They will last a long time. You may want to cut the recipe in half, as this recipe produces a lot of cookies.
